for the overall wellbeing

7-8 May 2027

Hotel Veronesi La Torre, Dossobuono (VR)

A programme designed for those who wish to adopt an integrated approach to the patient, in which the oral cavity, posture, neuromuscular system, breathing and speech are viewed as an unique dynamic system.

An interdisciplinary, practical and high-value approach, designed to provide tools that can be applied throughout daily practice to ensure clinical success.

An exclusive training programme aimed at healthcare professionals from different countries, focused on clinical exchange, interdisciplinary approach and professional development.

Speakers

Fabrizio Sintucci

CEO and founder of EPTAMED. He leads the strategic vision, innovation and development of training programmes in Integrated Equilibriodontics® Dentistry.

Dr Samuele Cova

A dentist, he has been using Eptamed Equilibrators for over 15 years and has treated more than 4,000 cases with them. He brings clinical experience, methodology and the practical application of Eptamed protocols.

Dr Massimiliano Baldinetti

A dentist who explores the relationships between the mouth, the skull, posture and function. He helps to assess the patient beyond the oral cavity, paying close attention to physical and functional adaptations.

Dr Alex Sleifer Ziller

An osteopath specialized in the holistic assessment of the patient. He works on the relationship between the cranio-cervical-mandibular system, posture and functional adaptations.

Dr Giulia Amianti

Speech and language therapist specialising in oral and orofacial functions. She integrates breathing, tongue movement and swallowing into the interdisciplinary approach.

TRAINING COURSE

COURSE TOPICS

An advanced training programme designed to integrate clinical insights, practical skills and applied interdisciplinary collaboration.

Clinical collaboration between dentist, osteopath and speech therapist

Synergy amongst professionals in analysing the case, sharing of therapeutic objectives and developing a coordinated, practical and genuinely effective treatment plan.

The patient integrated view

A holistic clinical assessment of the patient and the strategic value of an interdisciplinary approach to oral and general wellbeing.

Oral function and the stomatognathic system

Functional assessment, oral balance and the relationship between occlusion, function and treatment success.

Skull, posture and functional adaptations

Connections between the cranio-cervical-mandibular system, postural alignment and the organism adaptability.

Tongue, breathing and swallowing

The role of oral and orofacial functions in clinical stability, in the prevention of imbalances and through the therapeutical treatment.

Contents selected to provide insights, methodologies and clinical tools to be immediately applicable in interdisciplinary practice.

TOGETHER FOR THE PATIENT'S OVERALL WELL-BEING

Three areas of expertise, one goal: to understand the patient as a whole and develop a solid, consistent and long-lasting treatment pathway.

Orofacial, postural and functional disorders require the integration of complementary areas of expertise. When a dentist, an osteopath and a speech therapist share a common understanding of the case, the method and the objectives, the treatment plan becomes clearer, more effective and sustainable over time.

WHY REGISTER TOGETHER?

▶ To compare clinical cases in real time

▶ To create a shared approach that is useful in day-to-day practice

▶ To improve the quality of the treatment plan and follow-up

▶ To offer patients a more consistent, distinctive and comprehensive care experience

ENTRY COMBINATIONS

Dentist + Osteopath

To understand the relationship between occlusion, the temporomandibular joint (TMJ), posture and bodily compensations.

Dentist + Speech Therapist

To improve oral function, speech, breathing and swallowing.

Dentist + Osteopath + Speech Therapist

To develop a comprehensive, interdisciplinary assessment of the patient that is of greater clinical value

Combining expertise not only expands therapeutic opportunities, but also enhances the value of the treatment and the patient's quality of life.

Taking part together does not simply mean attending a course, but investing in a partnership able to improve clinical practice, communication between professionals and the patient's real well-being.
